

THE DUBLIN REVIEW.

95

THIRD SERIES.

VOL. XII.

JULY—OCTOBER.

MDCCCLXXXIV.

PUBLIC LIBRARY,

DETROIT, MICH.

SEP 17 1884.

LONDON: BURNS & OATES.

DUBLIN: M. H. GILL & SON.

BALTIMORE: JOHN B. PIET.

—
1884.

CONTENTS.

	PAGE
ART. I.—THE FIRST SISTERS OF CHARITY	1
Three suggestive characteristics of the origin of the Sisterhood: it begins in individual effort, of a retiring woman, and grows unconsciously—Condition of Paris and of the Poor in France at that period—Prevalence of misery—The character of Mlle. Le Gras, the foundress: her tenderness of heart, her intelligence, her virtues—Gradual growth and organization: origin of "La Charité"—First noviciate and postulants; first hospital service at the Hôtel Dieu; first teaching of the poor at La Chapelle; first vows—The Sisters of Charity in France now expelled from their great work of charity.
ART. II.—RECENT EDITIONS OF ARISTOPHANES AND SOPHOCLES .	21
Origin of comedy and tragedy: contrast of their manner of treating human life—Decline of tragedy and comedy—The political and poetical "motive" of the "Birds"—Merits of the new editions of Aristophanes and Sophocles: detailed examination of Mr. Green's Single Plays—Value of the MSS. used by Mr. Blaydes: criticism of his edition—Criticism of Professor Campbell's Sophocles.
ART. III.—IVAN TOURGUÉNIEF	46
Delicacy and Refinement of Tourguénief's writings—Sketch of his career: his antipathy to Russian serfdom—Writes his novels—Why he is less known in England than in France or Germany—How serfdom is treated by him in his "Sportsman's Jottings," and other works: especially in "The Wayside Inn"—Specimens of his "Prose Poems."

ART. IV.—THE CONVERSION OF ENGLAND	PAGE 65
If a purpose underlies the whole course of Nature, the spread of Christianity must have been by designed instruments—What therefore is to be the result of the wonderful influence and power accorded by Divine Will to England?—If the result is to be the spread of the Church why does not England become Catholic?—Comparative failure of recent movements towards the Church: present state of our advantages and prospects—Some reasons for our slow increase: growth of infidelity, and growth of religious activity in the Anglican Church; also, perhaps, attempt to break with our past in the externals of religion—Our present intellectual needs—Ways in which laymen may help the clergy towards the advancement of religion.
ART. V.—THE PRIMITIVE RELIGION OF THE CHINESE . . .	87
Assumed atheism of the Chinese very often alleged against the universal consent of humanity in belief of a God: object of this article is to consider if the assumption is a fact—Appeal to oldest records shows that the Chinese originally believed in a Supreme Being and offered sacrifice—Testimony of Confucius to primitive religion: testimonies from the Shû-King and the Shi-King—A summary of Chinese belief and practice as gathered from these authentic sources—Reply to an objection that “heaven” meant the material hemisphere.
ART. VI.—THE “ENCYCLOPÆDIA BRITANNICA” ON MISSIONS .	109
Dr. Maclear’s Article on Missions, a very misleading one: exaggeration of Protestant and ignorance of Catholic efforts—Reply to his charges against Portuguese and Spanish missionaries: and to his charges against the Jesuit De’ Nobili and the missions of Paraguay—Dr. Maclear’s account of the Modern Period (to him the Protestant Period): multiplication of societies: Vast increase of missionary collections, and of converts: value of all this—Protestant success, such as it is, how far due to missionaries—Catholic successes in China

Contents.

iii

PAGE

65

understated; also in Japan and India — Negative character of Protestant mission-work in India.

PAGE

ART. VI.—POPE LEO XIII. AND THE FREEMASONS . . . 144

Lord Carnarvon's speech—The real words of the Pope—English Freemasonry, being Protestant, naturally not specially referred to by him—But English Freemasons in reality abettors and accomplices of cosmopolitan anti-religious society—Existence of such a sect—Its increasing boldness—Its history: the "Charter of Cologne"—The Masonic oaths—Naturalism, the aim and purpose of the sect in France, in Italy, in Germany—What it has accomplished during the last ten or twenty years—English Masonry, apart from its Protestantism, perhaps harmless; but, as a Society, deserving of condemnation—Its "Naturalism" described and illustrated.

87

ENCYCLICAL OF POPE LEO XIII. ON FREEMASONRY . . . 166

SCIENCE NOTICES . . . 180

The Earthquake—Photographs of the Sun's Corona—An Antidote to Hydrophobia—Dust-free Spaces—Pre-historic Finds.

NOTICES OF CATHOLIC CONTINENTAL PERIODICALS . . . 183

Katholik — Historisch-politische Blätter — Stimmen aus Maria Laach—Historisches Jahrbuch der Goerres-Gesellschaft—La Civiltà Cattolica—Revue des Questions Historiques.

NOTICES OF BOOKS . . . 149

Dr. W. G. Ward's Essays on Theism—Father Mackey's Translation of S. Francis's Treatise on the Love of God—Jura Sacerdotum Vindicata—Father Humphrey's The Religious State—Girodon's Exposé of Catholic Doctrine—Mr. Lilly's Ancient Religion and Modern Thought—

109

Father Harper's Metaphysics of the School—Vibart's Translation of Chantrel's Church History—Life of St. Mildred—Lady G. Fullerton's Life of Lady E. Falkland—L. de Besson's Forces Morales de la Société—Dom G. Palmieri's Guide to Registers of the Vatican Archives—E. de Broglie's Fénelon à Cambrai—Cardinal Hergenröther's Regesta of Leo X.—H. Major's How to Earn the Merit Grant—Sir E. Beckett's Review of Hume and Huxley—Thring's Theory and Practice of Teaching—Hellmuth's Biblical Thesaurus—Furse's Mobilization and Embarcation of an Army Corps—Schütz Wilson's Studies in History, Legend, and Literature—Professor Blackie's Wisdom of Goethe—Rev. D. Eaton's Translation of Weiss' Biblical Theology—Arminius Vambéry—S. Taylor's Translation of Uhlhorn's Christian Charity—White's Translation of Spinoza's Ethic—Sir A. Phayre's History of Burma—Dr. Westcott's Epistles of St. John—Rev. T. F. T. Dyer's Folk-Lore of Shakespeare—Professor Max Müller's Upanishads—Dr. Edkins's Religion in China—Coupland's Von Hartmann's Philosophy of the Unconscious—What to do, and How to do it—Brewer's Reign of Henry VIII.—Works of Ralph Waldo Emerson—D'Avenel's Richelieu—Chinnock's Translation of Arrian's Anabasis.

CONTENTS.

ART. I.—DRYDEN AS A HYMNODIST	PAGE 245
---	-------------

Versatility of Dryden's genius: was he also a translator of hymns?—Was he the translator of the collection published in the Primer of 1706?—Critical reasons for thinking that he was: from internal peculiarities, &c.—Popular Catholic tradition supports the hypothesis that Dryden is the translator—Examination of the style and terminology of the hymns—Value of Mr. Saintsbury's new edition of Dryden's Works.

ART. II.—THE BATTLE OF THEISM	270
---	-----

Interest and value of Father Tilmann Pesch's book on the relations of modern science to scholastic philosophy—Influence exercised by Darwin in Germany: consequent attention now paid to experimental science—Danger in Germany and elsewhere of the advent of a "priesthood of science"—To restore the doctrine of final causes the present task of Christian philosophers—The genius of current philosophy—Successful struggle against it must be in constant appeal to Reason against Unreason.

ART. III.—CHRISTIANITY IN LANCASHIRE IN ROMAN AND CELTIC TIMES	290
--	-----

The most ancient remains of man in Lancashire—The Calder Stones at Wavertree near Liverpool—Roman conquest—Roman towns, roads, antiquities, and religion—Not a trace of Christianity in Roman times—Lancashire in the sixth century—Gildas, Maelgwyn, Rhydderch, and S. Kentigern—S. Kentigern's birth, education, consecration as bishop—His journey through Lancashire and sojourn in Wales—S. Kentigern the only canonized saint who ever laboured in Lancashire—His journeys to Rome.

ART. IV.—ABYSSINIA AND ITS PEOPLE 316

The mythical Prester John in Abyssinia—Conversion of Abyssinia to Christianity, and its subsequent history—Geographical isolation of the country—The Nile is Abyssinia's gift—Flora and fauna—Race, language, and character of the people—Their morals, habits, and industries—Religion and the Church—Government and power of the King—Quarrels with Egypt: Gordon Pasha's mission to the King; its failure—Admiral Hewitt's mission—Recent Catholic missionary efforts.

ART. V.—THE VICISSITUDES OF "VIGIL" 345

Object to trace the varied use of the word Vigil—Used to signify a watch: then the time occupied by the watch—The Jewish vigils and the hour of the crucifixion—Apostolic and Patristical uses of "Vigil"—Later it comes to mean a fast, and the day itself of a fast—Vigils for the dead: Wakes—"Crossfigill" in Irish writings—Irish use of Vigil for Feast: how this is accounted for.

ART. VI.—THE CONVERSION OF ENGLAND. A REPLY 358

How far the writer dissents from Mr. Mivart's explanation of England's non-conversion—Ought such conversion to have been anticipated from the Tractarian movement?—Writer thinks such "confident hopes" were unwarranted—Mr. Mivart's contrast between Catholic and Anglican worship amazing: Music, "Italianism," Latin v. Vernacular—"Why should England be Catholic?"—English slowness to change; even Ritualist clergymen are sincerely Protestant—They have most frequently no consistent theory of a Church.

Contents.

iii

PAGE

ART. VII.—THE CHRISTIAN BROTHERS AT THE HEALTH EXHIBITION	387
---	-----

Unanimous praise of Christian Brothers, during past three months, by English press and public—Present statistics of the Institute—Their founder, the father of popular education—Sketch of the life of the Venerable John Baptist de la Salle—Difficulties which he encountered : final success—His virtues—Noble conduct of the Brothers in the Franco-German War—Present persecution and abuse of them in France—Their exhibition exhibits as illustrative of their flourishing condition.

ENCYCLICAL LETTER OF POPE LEO XIII. ORDERING THE ROSARY DURING OCTOBER	412
--	-----

SCIENCE NOTICES	415
---------------------------	-----

The British Association—Arctic Exploration—Aëronautics—Meteorology—Prehistoric Finds.

NOTICES OF CATHOLIC CONTINENTAL PERIODICALS	420
---	-----

Revue des Questions Historiques—La Civiltà Cattolica—Katholik—Historisch-politische Blätter—Stimmen aus Maria Laach—Historisches Jahrbuch der Goerres-Gesellschaft.

NOTICES OF BOOKS	430
----------------------------	-----

Professor Mivart's Philosophical Catechism—Mgr. Dillon's The Virgin Mother of Good Counsel—C. Rohault de Fleury's La Messe—Metropolitan Bryennios's Teaching of the Twelve Apostles—Father Lehmkuhl's Theologia Moralis—Professor Fillion's Essais d'Exégèse—Father Corluy's Spicilegium Dogmatico-Biblicum—A. Rimmer's Stonyhurst, Illustrated—Father O'Connor's Only Reliable Evidence concerning Luther—Bishop Conroy's Occasional Sermons—Abbé Blampignon's Massillon—Dr. Verres's Luther—Bishop Moriarty's Allocutions—Professor Jungmann's Historical Essays—Mgr. Ricard's Montalembert—Allocutions on Liturgical Observances—Rev. Pius Devine's Auxilium

Prædicatorum—Cardinal Pitra's Analecta Sacra—Dr. B. Weiss' Life of Christ—Dr. Edersheim's Jesus the Messiah—The St. Germain Gospel of S. Matthew—Canon Cook's Origin of Religion—Dr. Sepp's Maria Stuart—Rev. T. J. Potter's Sacred Eloquence—Miss Hickson's Ireland in the Seventeenth Century—Young and Fair—L. Oliver's Father Placid and Rose Fortesque—The Village Lily—Maud Hamilton—Lost—Told in the Gloaming—Adventures at Sea—Rev. E. Langton Vere's For Better, Not for Worse—Lady Glastonbury's Boudoir—Uriel—Paul Féval's Pierre Olivaint—Pustet's "Editio typica" of Liturgical Books—Alphonse Cary's Easy Mass and Litany Tunes—Dr. Landau's Dekameron—C. Martel's Military Italy—Cust's Sketch of African Languages—Kern's Translation of Saddharma-Pundarika—R. Chambers' Vestiges of Creation—Father Lockhart's Old Religion—Dziewicki's Translation of Conrad Vallenrod—The Works of Aubrey de Vere—Atteridge's Notes on Catholic Missions—Pontalis's Jean de Witt—Life of Mdle. Le Gras—Rev. A. J. F. Mill's Gordon Riots.

BOOKS OF DEVOTION AND SPIRITUAL READING . . . 494